TUG-OF-WAR.

Exciting Tournament Begins on Saturday Night.

The beginning of the great tug-of-war was witnessed Saturday night in the pavilion, on the corner of Bere-tania and Alakea streets, by nearly 500 people, who saw one of the most exciting muscular contests that has ever taken place in Honolulu. The Quintet Club boys were present to enliven the occasion.

The following officers took their places at the middle of the long platform shortly before 8 o'clock: Judge, Tom Wright; referee and starter, H. E. Walker; time keeper, Charles Crane; marker, W. Nott.

Shortly afterwards, two teams of stalwart natives—one from the Honolulu Iron Works, and the other the boat boys or "Pakaka"—fled out, and, silently taking their places, grasped the stout rope. The signal to start was a pistol shot, and as soon as this had been given the two sides braced themselves and pulled for nearly 20 minutes, the red cloth mark was not seen to go more than an inch from the center. At last the foundry men began to get in their work, and in 33 minutes they had the requisite 5 feet, but not until both sides were completely worn out. Joe Murray was the foundry anchor.

In the second pull, the Waikiki team of natives was pitted against the Philadelphia team. The natives did not look as well as the navy men, but they pulled a lot better. In 9 minutes they had the bluejackets bested.

The third pull was to have been between the Moanalua team of natives and the Scandinavians, but the latter did not put in an appearance, so a team of boat boys was picked from the audience. After about 9 minutes' pulling without gain on either side the Quintet Club struck up "Moanalua." The team of that name set up a yell, and in less time than it takes to tell it, had the victory won, pulling their opponents right along with them.

The tournament will continue tomorrow night, with the following program:

1. U. S. S. Marion vs. Moanalua.
2. Honolulu Iron Works vs. Waikiki.
3. Pakaka vs. U. S. Philadelphia.

The admission will be 50 and 25 cents.

ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE.

Very Good Pictures But Waits Were Long.

When the Hawaiian Opera House opened Saturday night it looked very much as though the subscription list to the "Illustrated Magazine" ("Manao Noe-nau"), would not be large enough to pay for getting it out, and as is the case with many sure-enough publications, the promoters would have to depend upon the advertisers to make up the deficiency. But after two or three pages had been turned, new names were added to the subscription list until it was quite full.

The magazine is interesting, but like many Eastern publications, it is long on illustrations and short on text. Particular attention is given to the advertising columns, so that they were quite as interesting, and amusing in some instances, as the body of the book. A suggestion to the publishers, to the effect that the pages be cut, so that they might be the more easily and quickly turned, will not be amiss. A wait of five or eight minutes is long enough under any circumstances, but when this is aggravated by an orchestra of violins and horns sawing and blowing out compositions that have been played so many times in Honolulu as to become execrable, the wait between the illustrations is painful.

There is not a fault to be found with the illustrations; artistically arranged and executed, in some instances, with a superabundance of action and life-like genuineness, they were indeed pleasing to the eye. Take it all and all, the promoters of the "Manao Noe-nau" are to be congratulated on the success of their venture.

Stole a Wheel.

Kapika ran away with Kaaimoku's wheel Saturday night and wasn't decent enough to return it after a reasonable time. He calmly lighted the lamp and set out for an all-night ride, stopping at various places for cooling beverages. Nakookoo, assistant fish inspector at the market, found out the fact, and immediately proceeded to take Kapika to the police station, where the latter explained that he had only borrowed the wheel for the night and that he had no intention of keeping it. Kaaimoku was not at all pleased and did not take the explanation in a kindly spirit. He was consequently locked up, and will probably be tried today.

Maternity Home Luau.

The luau at the Kapiolani Maternity Home, Saturday afternoon, was an entire success. Some 600 people were present, and the tables were very well patronized. The luau proper was held in the shed, while the ice cream, candy and flower booths, prettily decorated with flags and greens, were on the lawn. It is estimated that the gross receipts amount to $1,000. The ladies who had the affair in charge desire to thank heartily all those who kindly donated the requisite materials for the feast.

Thinks He is a King.

Kauko, stepfather of Mrs. Kaulukou, was taken to the police station Sunday in the police wagon in a completely demented condition. Until within a week ago he was a sound, sane man, but suddenly he began to act peculiarly, and since that time has been out of his mind entirely. At the police station he began to speak of himself as king and to make historical references to the acts of the old chiefs. His condition is pitiable. Fifteen years ago Kauko was a police officer, and since that time has been working at various jobs.

The best preparation for preserving, restoring, and beautifying the hair is Ayer's Hair Vigor.

It keeps the scalp free from dandruff, heals troublesome humors, and prevents the hair from falling out. When the hair becomes dry, thin, faded, or gray, it restores the original color and texture and promotes a new and vigorous growth. Wherever used, Ayer's Hair Vigor supplants all other dressings, and becomes at once the favorite with ladies and gentlemen alike.
